

The NJ Do Not Call List is necessary. Before it I could not work, read, or sleep without being interrupted. I work from home often and am on conference calls and interruptions by solicters can have a huge drain on my productivity. If telemarketers call I will just turn off the ringer and follow-up on messages. If I happen to pick one up in error I will just treat them rudely. They have no right to call me and disturb me in my home for products I have no interest in.
